Dear Parents

We had an awesome Art session today!
We painted a beautiful set of turtles and decorated it with a wide array of vivid stickers.

Our group of young artists had a lot of fun in identifying the animal we were making! A beautiful variety of sponges were used as painting mediums today. It is a quick easy and no-mess medium and the paint dries up quickly this way. Once the kids finished painting the outer shells they were given stickers. We later attached heads and feet to finish our project.

Today's activity was a way to explore process it involved multiple stages which engage and encourage our young artists to particularly enjoy each and every step of the Art Activity. It works on developing attention and observation skills.

Great job guys! see you next time!
